FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1884.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The exhibitions and graduating exercises of the public schools of Weymouth took place last week, and the teachers and pupils are now enjoying the extended summer vacation, resuming their energies in the full enjoyment of the field of study. In reviewing a sketch of these school events of last week we note first the exercises of the North High School, five of whose pupils appeared upon the platform at the Union church last Friday evening² in the course of graduation and with the aid of their fellow pupils furnished the audience with a very pleasing programme of exercises. Under the supervision of the teachers the church was artistically adorned with choice flowers and plants, the front of the pulpit being shrouded in a dense mass of forget-me-not and, while around the choir gallery front and on the organ were displayed beautiful specimens of Flora's treasures.

The exercises commenced at 8 p.m., when to the music of a grand organ performed on the organ by Miss Fannie Sprague, the entire body of the pupils marched into the church, marshalled by Mr. Jas. E. Humphrey, and escorting the corps of teachers to the platform. The school then gave in spirit many of the choirs, "Indiana," from Donizetti's "L'elocia," when the school retired to the galleries, and after taking their seats prayer was offered by Rev. L. H. Frary. The graduating exercises then proceeded in order as follows:

Essay on "Sacrifice." Little Things, Miss Gedrite E. Blanchard.

Trio, Overture, "Ode of Bacchus," Boulton; Misses Baker, Simmons, and Blanchard.

Essay, Nature, Miss Edith P. Simmons.

Chorus, "Morning Invitation," G. A. Vose, Jr.

Essay, A Crazy Quilt, Miss Grace T. Baker.

Duet, Field Marshal, Spring, Franz Abt, Masters Leonard and Gaye.

Oration, Character, John H. Gutierrez.

Chorus, "Die Wacht am Rhein," William.

Prophecy, Miss Grace T. Baker.

Organ Solo, March from "Naaman," Costa, John H. Gutierrez.

Oration, with Valedictory, Visions of Death, Wallace M. Leonard.

Particular Hymns, words and music by J. H. G. Nichols.

He shall have all the past here he has:

The future had no music we can see,

The present shadowed over our good-bye;

Will make us longer here regretfully,

Yet pressing on, we hope to reach the light,

Strong in God's strength so far as the race,

If there be clouds to cross our path,

The misty curtain of our lives brighten,

We may not see the paths we are to tread,

To see the stepping stones set foot may cross,

Will like the lake at which we all have read,

Will brighter glow the more the tempests less,

Whatever we lack His fulness supply,

Though halting near it cannot we fall,

May we be kept healthily thousend years,

And trust in Him who watcheth over us.

Presentation of Diplomas by Mr. A. J. Richards.

Benediction.

The salutation of Miss Blanchard was a simple and earnest paper. The powers of what is termed "little things" have been profound factors in mighty events of the world's history. This incident which shows slowly along is as important as the roaring cataract, and in life, the simple, everyday deeds are potential in establishing character for the accomplishment of great deeds. What some may deem trifles others will consider necessary to the stability of the structure they are to rear. The lawyer, by neglect of minor points of preparation may suffer defeat in some important case, and the man of science, of art, or mechanics, by patient investigation and close attention only can reach the high plane of achievement which a world may admire. From obscure positions men of most famous renown have risen to exalted stations, little by little building their structure of merit through work for mankind.

The valedictory, "Visions of Ambition," by Master Wallace M. Leonard, was received with favor, and gave evidence of much merit in the volubiliterian as a writer and thinker. Among the causes which have made the world what it is today, the speaker placed ambition as a ruling power, rehearsing the leading incidents in the lives of Disraeli, Gambetta, Schlesinger and other leaders in the Old World's affairs as examples of this incentive to greatness and to personal advantage. But a nobler sphere of ambition is to be found in the record of the mighty men who have exercised a well-directed ambition in their efforts for personal advantages, but in espousing the cause of the poor and oppressed, in lifting men out of the degradation of evil and woful surroundings into the realms of a higher life. The speaker after directly addressing the school officials and pupils with parting words, paid an affecting tribute to the memory of the lamented classmate, Miss Emily Wilder, whose decease occurred a few weeks ago, and who had been selected to fill the place which he occupied.

The "Class Prophecies" by Miss Grace T. Baker, and her essay, "A Crazy Quilt," sparkled with humor, and were very fine productions, but want of room precludes more extended notice. The entire programme was replete with interest, and the Class of 1884 may well be termed one which has reflected honor upon their teachers and referees from the scenes of school life with credit to themselves and the town.

Each of the teachers and graduates was kindly remembered by friends in the bestowal of elegant bouquets and baskets of flowers.

The diplomas were awarded to the graduates by Ang. J. Richards, Esq., of the School Committee, who congratulated them upon their standing as scholars and thanked them for the pleasure and profit which their exercises had imparted to those present. In closing he expressed his earnest hope that their future life would be filled with brightness and happiness.

SOUTH HIGH SCHOOL.

The graduating exercises of the class of '81 of the South High School took place at the Second Congregational church on Thursday evening, June 26, the gathered throng filling the large auditorium to its utmost capacity. The floral decorations, though not profuse, were elegant and attractive. A large basket of flowers depended from the arched ceiling over the platform, while plants, ferns and bouquets, were tastefully grouped on either side of the platform. Messe. Arthur Head, Chas. Foster, Fred Clark, Chas. A. Loud, Adolph Louie and Walter Bates, acted as ushers. Promptly at eight o'clock the school marched into the church and the graduates took seats upon the platform. The latter all were white dressed and like others in years past who have stood in the same positions, seemed to be aware that the audience expected the best efforts possible after enjoying four years of the higher educational facilities. In this it was evident that those present were not disappointed, as each part assigned was given with a full control and admirable finish impossible without such high school training. The oration and essays were brief, graceful and carefully worded, the black-board illustrations on "Plant Life" by Miss Gardeon being an innovation over any former years programme, the rapidity and clearness with which the outlines appeared, eliciting the closest attention and applause. The presentation of bouquets and floral designs was a conspicuous feature of the evening, the young ladies especially, each receiving numerous tokens from their friends. The under graduate aided by choice numbered numbers, the singing by Miss Hattie Madan, as well as the trio by Misses Madan, Tower and Lou, being highly pleasing. Miss Madan has a sweet and even soprano voice which is being rapidly developed under the instruction of Miss Fannie Sprague. The choruses by the school showed the effects of training under the direction of Mrs. Foss, and are an incentive to high-musical endeavor. The popular and devoted teachers, Mr. N. S. Pease, Mr. Jas. E. Humphrey, and escorting the corps of teachers to the platform. Weymouth Water Works.

The contracts for the introduction of water from Weymouth Great Pond were made by the board of Water Commissioners last Tuesday, the contract for cast iron pipe being awarded to Mr. A. H. McNeal, of Burlington, N. J., and that for laying the pipe, building stand pipe, pumping station, etc., to Mr. W. C. McClellan, of Springfield, Mass. The contract provides that the work shall be commenced immediately, 400 tons of the large pipe to be delivered to the 15th of September, and the balance of delivery to commence at the opening of navigation in the spring of 1855, and all the pipe to be delivered by June 1 following.

The grand total of the contract foots up to a little over $250,000, which is a large reduction from the original estimate and shows a degree of financial and business tact on the part of the Water Board that proves the wisdom of the town in choosing so efficient representatives of its interests in the important matter of securing a water supply for the inhabitants of Weymouth. We need not present further argument in favor of the measure, as the Weymouth water works are now well fixed fact, but the town may well be congratulated on the success of the enterprise which is now so far consummated and has been so ably managed. It will be remembered that the original estimates of the engineers, Mr. Tidwell, were based on the construction of 35-30 miles of water course, the aggregate expense of which was placed at nearly $600,000. They have wisely concluded to increase the size of the main pipe for high service and gravity supply from 16 inches to 18, and the size of the stand pipe will be 40 feet—5 feet larger than that of the Quincy works, and will give better service in case of fire. That the Commissioners have been able to make this increase in weight of pipe and size of stand pipe, and yet be able to furnish nearly the estimated amount of supply, at a large reduction from the estimates, is a matter of hearty congratulation.

The transportation of the pipe from the manufacturer will be by sea, and will be delivered at the wharves at Weymouth Landing.

Temperance Address.

Rev. Mr. Sargent of Lovell's Corner, delivered an effective address on the temperance question in the Reform Club room, East Weymouth, last Sunday evening, to a large audience.

He alluded in the outset of his address to the fact that the art of distilling liquor was discovered in China 3000 years ago; but so corrupting and demoralizing was the effect of this baneful discovery that a prohibitory edict was promulgated, forbidding manufacture and its discoverer was banished to a lonely island.

The re-establishment of a similar provision of law is what is now needed the world over, forbidding the manufacture, importation or sale of alcoholic beverages.

In the seventh century the Arabians rediscovered the art, and this time it invoked the blessing of the god of healing and was taken into the domain of medicine maintaining so firm a grasp on the human race that no earthly power has yet been able to shake it off, though thousands of eminent physicans in the old world and in this land have pronounced against this twin brother of death, as it has well been named; for alcohol has not yet been found in all the wide universe of living nature, existing only in dead, putrefying matter.

The speaker proceeded to show the effects of the use of alcoholic drinks upon the morals of the people, proving by the returns of the Statistical Bureau that in Suffolk county, for example, 81 per cent of the crime was occasioned by the use of spirituous liquors; and asserting that every city sleeps over a volcano, where the baser passions of men and women are inflamed by strong drink, and crimes are precipitated by numbed brains.

The remedy for these gigantic evils can only be found in positive prohibition of the traffic. On the question of licensing of liquors, he said there is a standing challenge to the friends of license to show in any considerable county or city in the United States, where the revenue from the traffic exceeds the damage it produces.

In Providence the traffic cost the treasury $324,222, and yielded only $85,379; in New York the cost was $5,300,000, yield $909,600, similar returns being general.

The use of drugs in the manufacture of liquors was dwelt upon at length, and shown up in vivid colors. The lecture was very interesting and instructive.

Reunions.

It becomes our pleasant duty to record another of the semi-annual reunions of the family of Mr. P. E. Loud. The affair occurred on the fourth ult., and was a success in every particular.

The weather was everything that could be desired, an almost cloudless sky, bright sun-shine, and the air of the exact temperature for comfort. All those coming from abroad met at East Weymouth, and were conveyed to the paternal home in one of G. W. Young's barges, the ribbons being handled by Gury in his usual careful manner.

The embarking was a work of time, and care and patience, test pipes and cake night not be mingled with dir embers and human candles, or oranges and bananas find themselves in too intimate relations with torpedoes and blue lights. Special care too was taken on the journey that no unlucky boat should crush one or more of the many packages with which the load of the coach was almost covered. The same care may be said of the unloading, save that the explosive part of the cargo was speedily separated from the cable, and ensconced in a safe place, till twilight steles should render a pyrotechnic display impossible.

The grounds were decorated with flags, and attracted much attention from the passers-by. The merry party were soon scattered about, seeking and finding pleasure everywhere. While a part of the ladies prepared dinner, the others compensated the ingredients for ice-cream, when the muscles of the male members of the company were severely taxed to bring the delicious edible to perfection.

On the dinner we need but few comments, oysters and beef sandwiches were in active demand, particularly the former; the plum pudding rapidly disappeared, the tea, coffee and lemonade were equal to any and second to none."

After this important proceeding was ended, music was called for, and never did the grand old hymns fill one and above the ears of life, more completely than that on day. After a time the stirring strains of "Marching Georgia," and the like were heard, recalling to the older ones that time when three of their number marched to the sound of the grand old bugle."

As the sun sank from sight, the company adjourned to the beautiful meadow beneath the apple trees, where tea was served, and trays laden with various kinds of pies and cake were passed about, and the vivacious partisans of amid a feast of reason and flow of soul, juicy oranges and delicious bananas, with ice cream completed the repast. While the remnants of the feast were being cleared away, those of the mænines who knew the secrets of the boxes and packages produced a darkness come on, prepared for a small display of fireworks which were very悉sueful and elicited applause from the beholders.

The large that was to convey a portion of the party to their homes came all too soon, but they were soon ready and amid a babel of farewells and promises to meet again at Thanksgiving the carriage moved off, and the second reunion was a thing of the past.

Our local C. L. S. C. are planning for a two days excursion to the New England Assembly camp ground at South Framingham for Thursday and Friday, July 21 and 22.

To complete arrangements a meeting of the circle is called to meet at Rev. S. Carroll's Monday evening, July 21. South Framingham's camp grounds at Lake View is the New England Chautauqua. Here in the beautiful grove in the midst of a village of pretty cottages and canvas tents is held the New England Sunday school assembly from July 16 to July 27. Programmes of the meetings may be had by addressing S. B. Lynch, Sup't Lake View, South Framingham; and while these show the meetings to be especially valuable to Sunday school teachers and Chautauquans, yet the programmes show a rich feast that would be enjoyable and profitable to all others. During the two days of the proposed visit of our local circle, Rev. A. E. Dunning lectures, Prof. Julius Seelye of Amherst College, addressed the C. L. S. C., there will be a C. L. S. C. procession, recognition service, and graduation with presentation of diplomas, two concerts will be given under direction of Prof. Sherman of N. E. Conservatory, Boston, one of which is the Cantata of "Athalia," and there will be an address on Hindoo Philosophy by Babu and Claudia Rose of India, besides other exercises we cannot enumerate. It is proposed now that a special headquarters be provided on the grounds for the convenience of the E. Weymouth C. I. S. C., and any friend who may join them in this excursion.

At midnight of Thursday last, and as the "Fourth" was just being ushered into existence the people of East Weymouth who were not already awake were aroused from their slumber by the whirling of the locomotive of the freight train which was standing at the depot, the cause of this communion being the burning of the barn of Mr. John S. Salisbury, which was undoubtedly of incendiary origin. Steamer No. 2, with hose carriage, also the Europa II, X. L. truck, were soon on the ground and rendered what service was needed. An unusually large crowd gathered to witness the fire, and at times there was considerable excitement created by those who had been indulging in the ardor, in trying to start a row, which however failed. The loss was small, fully covered by insurance.

The lawn party on the grounds of Mr. John P. Lovell, held evening, under the auspices of the Ladies Cemetery Association was in every particular a success.

The grounds were brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns and never looked better on any similar occasion. The Weymouth Band was present, and at intervals of about ten minutes gave popular selections of music, drawing a large crowd who did not enter the enclosure, but lingered outside. During the evening Mr. E. Hawes, in behalf of the ladies, presented Mr. and Mrs. Lovell with a handsome hand painted plaque, and a ring engraved with the name of Plymouth. The families of George T. Hand and Dorick White excused to Nantasket beach yesterday.

Mr. Lorenzo H. Loud and William C. Nash have formed a copartnership to carry on the boot and shoe fitting business.

The Weston mansion, on Washington street, has been repainted the past week.

It is rumored that the central office for all the telephone instruments at this side of Braintree will be located at Gay's drug store, East Weymouth.

Mr. R. V. Barnes has recovered from his recent ailment, but has been down town the past week, his son, David R. is quite ill with rheumatism.

The yachting season on Fore river is now at its height. Capt. Whittemore daily taking parties down the harbor is nearly completed, and is of similar design to the fine structure at Pope's Hill. The work on the new station at Nantasket is being prosecuted as rapidly as possible, and with these and other improvements the Old Colony line will be made more attractive than ever.

On the dinner we need but few comments, oysters and beef sandwiches were in active demand, particularly the former; the plum pudding rapidly disappeared, the tea, coffee and lemonade

were equal to any and second to none."

After this important proceeding was ended, music was called for, and never did the grand old hymns fill one and above the ears of life, more completely than that on day. After a time the stirring strains of "Marching Georgia," and the like were heard, recalling to the older ones that time when three of their number marched to the sound of the grand old bugle."

As the sun sank from sight, the company adjourned to the beautiful meadow beneath the apple trees, where tea was served, and trays laden with various kinds of pies and cake were passed about, and the vivacious partisans of amid a feast of reason and flow of soul, juicy oranges and delicious bananas, with ice cream completed the repast.

While the remnants of the feast were being cleared away, those of the mænines who knew the secrets of the boxes and packages produced a darkness come on, prepared for a small display of fireworks which were very悉sueful and elicited applause from the beholders.

A young man named John Sheehan, while in an insane condition from the use of liquor, left his home July 4, and striped himself in the woods on Broad street. Officers were notified, and residents started out in pursuit of him, and Sheehan, after about three hours chase, Sheehan being in an utterly exhausted condition. He was placed in the East Weymouth lockup. Sheehan's wife and two children are inmates of the asylum.

The allowance for salaries at Weymouth and East Weymouth post offices has been reduced $100, by the Department.

The Norfolk Club held their monthly meeting at Vassar's hotel last Saturday evening, dinner being served at 8:30 p.m.

Among those present were Den. A. Reed, Dr. G. W. Fay, and H. A. Thomas, of Weymouth; H. L. Morrison, of Braintree, and H. F. Faxon, of Quincy, and Lt. Gov. Ames of Easton. It is expected that Senator Blaine will be a guest at a future meeting.

Fremont Chandler returned from Chicago last week, for a visit to friends in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Linton and daughters, of East New York, are sojourning in Weymouth, on a visit to friends.

The Weymouth Polo Club have reorganized again with the following players:

At Derby Academy special attention will be given to English branches, book-keeping, penmanship and drawing.

A dividend of 9 1/2 percent has been declared by the South Weymouth Savings Bank, payable on and after July 4.

Mrs. Richard Holbrook has gone to Library, Me., to pass a few weeks there.

Capt. Geo. P. Lyon has been quite ill the past week, but is now recovering.

Mr. James Burns has been visiting friends in New Hampshire, and Mr. Morris Keohau has been visiting at Worcester.

Mrs. Mary E. Nash has conveyed to Geo. T. Hunt her place on Summer street, about 6 acres of land, with buildings, for $3500.

Speeches and documents on tariff reform can be obtained of Josiah Quincy, Esq., State street, Boston, who has forwarded to us a number of these documents.

Bicycle Show at the "Brookside."

Mr. A. F. E. Hunt killed a black snake in his meadow near King Oak hill, last Saturday, measuring over four feet in length. The snake made a vicious attack on Mr. Hunt before he dispatched the reptile.

It is probable that frequent talks on important subjects will be given before the pupils of Derby Academy by prominent persons during the coming year.

The ladies will do well to call early on Mrs. E. H. Holt's cloak and suit parlors and secure bargains in remnants. Read her card in today's paper.

We sell Ladies Sample Shoes, in all styles, for $2.50, at the "Brookside."

On Saturday last the civil engineer of the O. C. R. R. was out from Boston looking over the stone work of the bridge near the East Weymouth depot, and it is probable that to make what repairs are necessary the whole of the stone work will have to be taken out and replaced.

The rate of taxation in Weymouth for the present year has been fixed by the Assessors at $14.10 on $100—a large reduction from last year, the town having raised $24,600 less than last year, at the annual meeting.

We congratulate Mr. Simmons on the ability as a builder which he has manifested and on the thoroughness of his work in the erection of this substantial structure, and we trust the I. O. O. P. will do well to give him the opportunity to "do so again" in the erection of their new hall.

The Tempest.

Of Sunday afternoon was one of the severest of the season, but the lurid mass of angry cloud which arose in the west, or is often the case, divided before it reached here, and the tall reef of its fury was spent north and south of this place. At West Dennis the storm was one of a terrible nature, the lightning being incessant and the thunder unusually heavy. The livery stable of Wm. Brewster was struck and burned, two horses and several dogs being killed and about 10 tons of hay destroyed. His son Henry, who was in the barn, was stunned, but sustained no serious injury. The house of Mr. Simpson, at South Weymouth was somewhat damaged by lightning, the plastering and walls being torn.

During the slower Sunday evening, lightning entered the house of Mr. Willis Hall, on Front street, by the telephone wire, and passed around the gilt bordering of the paper in one of the rooms, dislodging it, but no further damage ensued.

Sand Concert.

The Weymouth Band concert at the Landing last Friday evening drew a large audience to Washington square, who were greatly entertained with the following programme:

1. March, Unique;
2. American Overture;
3. Galop, Bachman;
4. Waltz, Breeze of the night;
5. Evans of Germany;
6. Medley;
7. Schottisch;
8. March, Salutation;
9. Home, Sweet Home.

Refreshments provided by a general subscription were served in the banquet room of Masonic hall. Vaughan's ice cream and fruit being the principal features. The band were highly pleased with their genious reception, and will be welcomed again whenever they can make arrangements for another concert.

EAST WEYMOUTH.

Mr. Wm. Clark and Mrs. Shaw, of Cleveland, Ohio, visitors of Mrs. De Pew, are here for a brief visit.

Mr. Geo. H. Cunningham and family are occupying their summer cottage at Weymouth Neck.

Mr. Wm. M. Marsh, suburban reporter for the Boston Globe, is enjoying a vacation of two weeks.

Mr. E. G. Bates is building a hay window on the east side of his house, embracing both stories.

The platform and steps of Loud & Lovell's store are being relaid by carpenter Mac.

The next regular meeting of the W. T. U. will be held Wednesday evening, July 24d, at their room.

Mr. Geo. E. Rice (son of Mr. Wm. P. Rice, of East Weymouth) and family, are visiting friends here.

Tuesday and Wednesday night Mr. Sylvanus White had thirteen chickens weighing 2 1/2 lbs. each, two hens and twenty small chicks, killed by weasels.

M. N. F. has sold his hair dressing business to Mr. Ed. Connell, and has opened a barber's shop on Tremont street, Boston.

Mr. E. B. Audrus has taken a position as driver of Mr. Burness' bakers' team, and will remove his family to Somerville.

Mr. Walter F. Channing, the young gentleman who some years ago was sick with consumption, has come to Weymouth, by the skillful treatment of Dr. Drake, of this place, and Dr. Blodgett, of Boston, so far recovered his health as to be able to do something, and consequently opened a livery stable on Pearl street, has done quite a business in letting teams, besides carrying a load of workmen to and from East Weymouth every day. Being an enterprising nature, he has bought of Eliza Pratt the business of conveying passengers and from the No. Weymouth depot, running as far as Bradley Point, and the Old North project. He has just started a livery stable, a pleasant place, and a lively business in carrying passengers in his splendid barge. The public may rest assured that with such an old and experienced sailor, Capt. Abner Stow, and caretaker drivers to handle the ribbons, all will be done promptly and satisfactorily.

We are glad to see Capt. Channing meeting with such public favor, while trying to earn a honest living.

Mr. R. Orcutt, Esq., has sold his old hay seeds, and replaced them with new ones of the latest improved make, "Fairbanks Standard." They are so arranged as to do the weighing in the store—a decided improvement.

Last Sunday Capt. N. Goodspeed fished a pistol ball on the floor of one of his chambers, and an investigation showed that the ball had been fired by someone else, so much so that it was impossible to tell who had done it.

Miss Lydia Weston, of the First Congregational church, was married to Capt. N. Goodspeed, of the First Congregational church, on Saturday evening, June 24, at the residence of Capt. N. Goodspeed, and the wedding service was performed by Rev. Mr. John F. Davis, of the First Congregational church.

Workingmen's Institute.

Husk says that "whatever you see want, or misery, or degradation in this world, it shows that where there should have been providence there has been waste; when there should have been labor there has been idleness, and wilfulness where there should have been subordination." This statement is to be qualified by the admission that sickness or calamity in publ. labor may have been the cause of want and misery in some cases; but that the condition of the masses may be improved by organizations to shape the habits and associations of large numbers of young men and surround them with means of intellectual and moral improvement. It is a truth which needs no argument to sustain it. We have noted a paragraph in our news items this week, to the effect that some of the workmen in one of the large shoe factories of this town have been discharged, owing to their disreputable mode of conduct and circumstances. We are led to present to the consideration of employers of labor a few facts concerning the operations of the Wells Memorial Workingmen's Institute, of Boston, the plan of which is well worthy the attention of every citizen who desires to see our young men educated in ways that will conduce to their own and the public's advantage.

The Institute has a wide scope in its action—perhaps wider than could be maintained outside of a city. It has a building adapted for its purposes, in which are located a reading-room, social room, game room, and gymnasium. Free entertainments are given to members and lady friends in a large hall, also lectures of various character, and classes in bookkeeping, penmanship, drawing, elocution and dramatic style are maintained at a slight charge. A singing class is free to members and ladies.

In connection with these means of instruction and entertainment, the Institute also has a system of purchase of articles in provisions, wearing apparel, household furnishings, etc., whereby a saving is made to members, and also has a co-operative bank, in which savings may be deposited for a rainy day. A mutual aid society and a medical dispensary are additional features of the Institute. A temperance society has been organized among the members which has promise of great usefulness.

It can hardly be expected that our residents who possess the requisite means and have a good degree of interest in the welfare of others would be willing to establish an Institute with so great a combination of attraction and value, in the limited field of a country town or village; but the plan might well be copied in some of its details, and would undoubtedly do much toward elevating those whose surroundings are now of an adverse character, to a better citizenship and nobler aims in life.

Local Improvement.

We have received a pamphlet containing an essay on the important subject of village improvement, a public matter which is assuming more and more importance in the towns and villages of New England. The essay was written by Rev. Mr. Titus, formerly of Weymouth, and was awarded a prize which had been offered for the best essay on the subject. As much interest has arisen in South Weymouth as a large amount of valuable work has been done there through the organization of an improvement association, while the residents of North Weymouth have also organized for the same purpose. It is desirable that the other villages of the town should make an effort in this direction and add to beautifying and improving the whole town, from centre to circumference. The essay referred to presents arguments of a forcible character on the subject of rural improvement, some of which we copy. The writer says:

"What are the methods of village improvement? At the outset a public spirit is required. This requires no words. It is a place without a 'corporation.' A place without a few men who have a right interest outside of business's poverty-stricken interests. These few men can come together, can talk about cleaning up the highways, byways and hedgerows, can draw up applications for grants of different kinds of funds, etc., and how best to set them out and care for them; those men can talk of how to have more grass to grow about the current, in making fences and repairing sidewalks, and the like, etc., etc. And, will do more to set the people talking upon these same questions than many scattered tracts. These meetings should be sustained by local talent.

If a village improvement society depends upon speakers (and good also), it might as well give up all these speakers as not skill in. They have home talent with words in rhyme, phrasal, but to the point every time. How many people there are who are attracted to places, by their appearance, perhaps by only driving through its streets. The first impression is much to the mind of a stranger. If this first is favorable, a line of beneficial influence goes to the speaker. How many repairs, for neatness and order enhance the value of estates. To become known among sister towns as one enviable, not alone for beauty, but for beauty and intelligence, is a great plus in a place of residence. Those much could be said on the attractiveness of a town, though there will be some unwilling to recognize this argument, but the moral influence will be changed to willingness, when others are moved to pay more attention to the value of the village, people by talking of these houses, highways and public buildings. The influence is healthy, and pays as a social investment, as well as enhances the entire value of the town. Models, too, are very useful. How many people there are who are attracted to places, by their appearance, perhaps by only driving through its streets. The first impression is much to the mind of a stranger. If this first is favorable, a line of beneficial influence goes to the speaker. How many repairs, for neatness and order enhance the value of estates. To become known among sister towns as one enviable, not alone for beauty, but for beauty and intelligence, is a great plus in a place of residence.

Personal. Mr. R. E. Benfield, late Principal of the North High School, has received a very flattering offer of the Superintendence of Public Schools of Mankato, Minnesota, and has accepted the offer. He will be greatly missed by many friends here, but will still congratulate him on his prospects in a wider sphere of educational usefulness.

The Show.

The heavy shower of Friday evening last prevented the expected exhibition of fireworks at Nantasket by E. S. Hunt & Son, but those present were entertained with music by Hovey's Band, a fine programme being rendered. The season thus far has been very unfavorable for hotel keepers along the shore, but August may give us warmer weather and increase the number of visitors. The Hotel Pemberton, with ample dimensions, is receiving a limited patronage, though it is one of the best sites on the coast for a sojourn in warm weather.

Excursion.

A party of young gents of the Land- and East Braintree enlaided in 14 ap'ls. Sheppard's yacht "Folly," last Saturday, for an excursion along the coast as far as Portland, Me., occupying a week or more. Capt. Whittemore was skipper of the craft.

Mr. Leonard Gardner informs us that the plastered surface in the new Masonic hall amounts to over half an acre.

Astronomical Data.

On the evening of July 26th, at 10:30 mean time, (not standard time,) the altitude of the moon will be 11 degrees 25 minutes, and the azimuth of its western or bright limb, if counted from the direction of the elevated pole, will be 124 degrees 8 minutes, or its supplement to 180 degrees, if counted from the meridian; equal to 55 degrees 52 minutes toward the west, as seen from Town Hall, in latitude 42 degrees 12 minutes north, and at places not far distant from the given place. The difference between the computed and observed azimuth will be the variation of the magnetic needle at the given place, and at places not far distant. At 11, 20m mean time, the fixed star of the Keanebaut, the only star of the first magnitude in the constellation Pisces Australis, will be 7 degrees 30m above the eastern horizon, and its azimuth, computed from the meridian, will be 36 degrees 40m east. The adopted standard railroad time now in use in this vicinity is nearly 16 minutes slow of astronomical mean time. L. O.

Bad Luck.

Comrade J. C. Wendall, of Post 55, has had a run of ill fortune recently, somewhat akin to Job's disasters, save the "score boards": July 5th, his horse, valued at $125, died, and last Wednesday his cow, worth $50, which he had tied in the field, was strangled to death by the rope. He now has a promising cow suffering from an injured leg, and it is feared the animal will have to be killed.
